Excused: Senator J. Thomas at 10:15 a.m. and Senator Poston.

Prayer by the Senate Chaplain:

Our God we have witnessed in our days the outcome of political intrigue which, in its malevolent and selfish manipulation, destroys the heart of a people and renders them prey for determined and disciplined foes whose energies are unified though their cause be questionable.

Teach us to be watchmen within our governmental activities and to sound the trumpet with certainty against all disruptive encroachments on the trust invested in us by the people. Grant us this so that the people become neither disillusioned nor disheartened in the democratic processes.

Teach us that disheartening disillusionment is the emotional debility which destroys the will of a people to survive and so often allows the few to overcome the majority.

Grant us strength to guard our own motives and constantly renew our commitment to the people we represent. Amen.
