I. Summary:

The provisions of this CS resulted from the State Government Function/Activity Review Interim Project in 1997 prepared by the Florida House of Representatives. During the review, a number of statutory provisions relating to the Department of Highway Safety and Motor Vehicles (DHSMV) were found to have incorrect and obsolete references. Most importantly, it was found that many noncriminal traffic infractions are not linked by reference to a specific penalty. In lieu of specific statutory authority, DHSMV has administratively classified traffic violations (i.e., moving, nonmoving, pedestrian).

The CS revises, reenacts, and amends various highway safety and motor vehicle provisions of the Florida Statutes to:

- Delete obsolete language.
- Provide uniform references for noncriminal traffic infractions and applicable penalties.
- Make technical and corrective changes.

Because the proposed changes are technical in nature, the CS has no substantive or fiscal impact.

This CS substantially amends chapters 316, 318, 319, 320, 321, 322, 324, 325, 328, 627, and 784 of the Florida Statutes. (See the section by section analysis under Effects of Proposed Changes for detailed list).

II. Present Situation:

On November 17, 1997, the Speaker of the Florida House of Representatives directed House committees to perform several activities relating to the State Agency Function/Activity Review and Prioritization Project. Statutory provisions relating to the DHSMV's operations were reviewed to determine their consistency with the agency's mission. As part of the Project, House staff was instructed to identify statutes that are obsolete or in need of technical revision.

During the review, several statutory provisions were found to have incorrect and obsolete references. Most importantly, it was found that most noncriminal traffic infractions are not linked by reference to a specific penalty. In lieu of specific statutory authority, DHSMV has administratively classified traffic violations (i.e., moving, nonmoving, pedestrian) so that law enforcement officers can properly issue traffic citations and the appropriate penalty assessed. DHSMV's classification of traffic control violations is included as part of the Department's Uniform Traffic Citation Procedures Manual.

In January 1998, the House Committee on Transportation issued a report in response to the Speaker's directive. Draft legislation was prepared to correct those statutory references that were determined to be obsolete or in need of technical revision.

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

The CS revises, reenacts, and amends various provisions of the Florida Statutes relating to highway safety and motor vehicles to:

- Delete obsolete language.
- Provide uniform references for noncriminal traffic infractions and applicable penalties.
- Make technical and corrective changes.

Because the proposed changes are technical in nature, the CS has no substantive impact.
