B. PRESENT SITUATION:

Article VI of the Florida Constitution provides the constitutional framework for elections in the State of Florida. Subsection 4(a) provides general disqualifications as follows:

- (a) No person convicted of a felony, or adjudicated in this or any other state to be mentally incompetent, shall be qualified to vote or hold office until restoration of civil rights or removal of disability.

Additionally, section 97.041(2)(b), F.S., provides that a person who has been convicted of any felony by any court of record and who has not had his or her right to vote restored pursuant to law is not entitled to register or vote.

The authority to restore a person's civil rights is bestowed upon the Governor with the consent of at least three members of the Cabinet. Article IV, Section 8(a) establishes the authority for clemency as follows:¹

- (a) Except in cases of treason and in cases where impeachment results in conviction, the governor may, ... with the approval of three members of the cabinet, grant full or conditional pardons, restore civil rights, commute punishment, and remit fines and forfeitures for offenses.

Therefore, a person who has been convicted of a felony and not had his or her civil rights restored by one of the methods prescribed by law, may not vote in Florida.

Amendments to Florida's Constitution may be proposed in several manners. Article XI, Section 1, of the Florida Constitution, provides the Legislature the authority to propose amendments to the Constitution by joint resolution voted on by three-fifths of the membership of each house. The amendment must be placed before the electorate at the next general election held after the proposal has been filed with Secretary of State's office or may be placed at a special election held for that purpose.

C. EFFECT OF PROPOSED CHANGES:

HJR 779 is a House Joint Resolution proposed to amend Article VI, section 4, of the Florida Constitution. The Resolution provides that a convicted felon or a person adjudicated mentally incompetent may not vote or hold office until that right has been restored, as provided by law.

HB 781 is the implementation bill to HJR 779. HB 781 essentially provides that persons convicted of one or more felonies will automatically have their right to vote restored one year after completion and satisfaction of all nonmonetary sentences imposed unless objected to by a majority of the Board of Executive Clemency.

V. COMMENTS:

A. CONSTITUTIONAL ISSUES:

The authority to grant clemency rests exclusively with the Governor [Article IV, section 8, Florida Constitution]. Previous attempts to circumvent this authority through legislative acts have met with objection from the Florida Supreme Court. [See generally, Singleton v. State, 38 Fla. 297 (1896); In re Advisory Opinion of the Governor, 334 So.2d 561 (Fla. 1976); In re Advisory Opinion of the Governor Civil Rights, 306 So.2d 520 (Fla. 1975); and Sullivan v. Askew, 348 So.2d 312 (Fla. 1977),]. The Court's sentiment is best summarized by this statement:

“The people of this state through adoption of Article IV, Section 8, Florida Constitution expressed their will that the power of pardon and restoration of civil rights vest in the executive ... [t]herefore, when the Constitution prescribes the manner of doing an act, the manner prescribed is exclusive ...” (Emphasis added).

In re Advisory Opinion of the Governor Civil Rights at 523. In light of these decisions, a Constitutional amendment is required to grant an additional method allowing the restoration of voting rights.
