B. EFFECT OF PROPOSED CHANGES:

Background

The Public Records Act

Chapter 119, F.S., the Public Records Act (Act), contains: policy statements regarding public records; maintenance and custody requirements; inspection, copying, and fee standards; an exemption review process; and exemptions. The Act has been amended numerous times but has not undergone a comprehensive review and revision.

In 2002, the Florida Legislature created a 22-member Study Committee on Public Records (study committee).¹ The study committee was legislatively directed to address a broad scope of issues regarding court records, official records, privacy, and public access. On February 15, 2003, the study committee submitted recommendations to the Governor, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, President of the Senate, and Speaker of the House of Representatives. Two recommendations made to the Legislature included reorganizing the Act and creating a statutory definition of redaction.²

Records Retention

In addition to the Act, numerous other statutes require state and local agencies to retain and store records that have historical or other value. The statutes specify records retention periods of two years to 30 years and may authorize destruction following such periods. Other public records are to be permanently retained.

In 1999, the Office of Program Policy Analysis and Government Accountability (OPPAGA) reviewed the state's records management system and concluded that there was confusion regarding records retention and destruction. The OPPAGA report recommended that the Legislature review possible statutory changes to alleviate the confusion. As a result, the House Committee on Tourism reviewed the state's records management system during the 2001 interim. Based upon the committee's survey of state agencies and meetings with agencies and other House committee staff, the committee's report recommended statutory changes to alleviate the confusion.

During the 2002 regular session, HB 539 by the Committee on Tourism and Representative Trovillion was introduced. That bill reflected OPPAGA's suggested changes as well as reorganized the Act.

¹ See chapter 2002-302, L.O. F. The term of the Study Committee expires June 30, 2003.

Effect of Bill

This bill reorganizes the Act in order to topically group similar subjects. Also, at the recommendation of the study committee, a definition of redaction is created and inserted into the definitions section of the Act. No other changes were made to definitions or requirements in the Act, except to conform to Article I, s. 24 of the Florida Constitution.

This bill amends various sections of law regarding the reduction of timeframes for or elimination of retention of specific records if: the current retention requirements are no longer relevant to the respective agency's statutory requirements; the records are no longer being maintained by the originating agency; the retention timeframe is inordinate; the records are required to be maintained in outdated formats; or the records are retained in a format or timeframe contrary to state records retention laws. This bill also amends certain sections of law containing the phrase "permanent record" or "permanent file" in order to specify that such records do not require indefinite retention.

This bill amends s. 257.36, F.S., to require that when an agency's duty or responsibility is transferred to another agency or entity, the receiving agency or entity becomes the official records custodian. When an agency or entity is dissolved, the Executive Office of the Governor becomes the official records custodian. Designation of the records custodian must be in accordance with s. 119.021, F.S. The records custodian is responsible for payment of the storage service charge regarding records.

This bill repeals ss. 119.0115, 119.012, 119.02, 119.031, 119.041, 119.05, 119.06, 119.08, 119.085, 119.09, 119.10, 212.095(6)(d), and 238.03(9), F.S. See "SECTION DIRECTORY" for further details.

Additionally, this bill corrects numerous cross-references necessitated by the renumbering of sections in the Act, and adds other sections of law that need reference changes; deletes superfluous language referencing the Federal Code of Regulation because these provisions are no longer necessary; and makes numerous editorial changes.

II. FISCAL ANALYSIS & ECONOMIC IMPACT STATEMENT

A. FISCAL IMPACT ON STATE GOVERNMENT:

1. Revenues: See “FISCAL COMMENTS” section for details.
2. Expenditures: None.

B. FISCAL IMPACT ON LOCAL GOVERNMENTS:

1. Revenues: None.
2. Expenditures: None.

C. DIRECT ECONOMIC IMPACT ON PRIVATE SECTOR: None.

D. FISCAL COMMENTS: There are costs associated with a complete revision to a statute, including printing costs. It would be expected that over time, as exemptions are consolidated and their number reduced, costs will be reduced. Further, as it becomes less difficult to find exemptions that are applicable, costs will be reduced.

⁴ DBF no longer receives paper copies of currency transaction report forms. Those reports are electronically filed with the federal government and maintained in a database that can be accessed by DBF’s Investigations Office.

⁵ This section is being removed due to the statutory elimination of parole for most offenses committed on or after October 1, 1983, and all remaining cases for commitments committed on or after October 1, 1995.
