I. Summary:

Senate Joint Resolution 78 amends Article I, Section 2 of the Florida Constitution to delete provisions authorizing the Legislature to regulate or prohibit the ownership, inheritance, disposition, and possession of real property by aliens ineligible for citizenship.

This joint resolution substantially amends Article I, Section 2 of the Florida Constitution.

II. Present Situation:

A. Constitutional Amendment Process

Article XI of the Florida Constitution sets forth various methods for proposing amendments to the constitution, along with the methods for approval or rejection of proposals. One method by which constitutional amendments may be proposed is by joint resolution agreed to by three-fifths of the membership of each house of the Legislature. Art. XI, s. 1, Fla. Const. Any such proposal must be submitted to the electors, either at the next general election held more than 90 days after the joint resolution is filed with the Secretary of State, or, if pursuant to law enacted by the affirmative vote of three fourths of the membership of each house of the Legislature and limited to a single amendment or revision, at an earlier special election held more than 90 days after such filing. Art. XI, s. 5(a), Fla. Const. If the proposed amendment is approved by a vote of the electors, it becomes effective as an amendment to the Florida Constitution on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in January following the election, or on such other date as may be specified in the amendment. Art. XI, s. 5(c), Fla. Const.

B. Property Rights

Article I, s. 2 of the Florida Constitution, which sets forth Florida's constitutional guaranty of property rights, provides:

Basic Rights.--All natural persons, female and male alike, are equal before the law and have inalienable rights, among which are the right to enjoy and defend life and liberty, to pursue happiness, to be rewarded for industry, and to acquire, possess and protect property; except that the ownership, inheritance, disposition and possession of real property by aliens ineligible for citizenship may be regulated or prohibited by law. No person shall be deprived of any right because of race, religion, national origin, or physical disability.

This constitutional provision has its genesis in the Florida Constitution of 1868, which provided that “[f]oreigners who are or who may hereafter become bona fide residents of the State, shall enjoy the same rights in respect to the possession, enjoyment, and inheritance of property as native-born citizens.”

This provision was transferred to the Florida Constitution of 1885 and amended by the voters in 1926 to provide that “[f]oreigners who are eligible to become citizens of the United States under the provisions of the laws and treaties of the United States shall have the same rights as to the ownership, inheritance and disposition of property in the State as citizens of the State, but the Legislature shall have power to limit, regulate, and prohibit the ownership, inheritance, disposition, possession and enjoyment of real estate in the State of Florida by foreigners who are not eligible to become citizens of the United States under the provisions of the laws and treaties of the United States.”

The current provision pertaining to the Legislature's ability to regulate or prohibit an alien's right to own, inherit, dispose, and possess real property has been in the Florida Constitution since 1968.<sup>1</sup> There is no Florida case law construing this provision. Additionally, there are only two Florida statutes currently in existence that pertain to an alien's real property rights. Section 198.04, F. S., provides for a tax to be imposed upon the real property of an alien that is located in this state upon the death of the alien. Section 732.1101, F.S., simply provides that aliens shall have the same rights of inheritance as citizens.

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

This resolution would amend Article I, s. 2 of the Florida Constitution to delete the provision that currently allows the Legislature to prohibit or regulate an alien's right to own, inherit, dispose, and possess real property. This would allow aliens to enjoy property rights similar to those currently afforded to citizens of the state.

This resolution provides no effective date for the constitutional amendment. In accordance with section 5 of Article XI of the Florida Constitution, it would take effect on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in January following the election at which it was approved by the electorate.

<sup>1</sup> The Florida Constitution does not define the term “alien.” Only one Florida statute, s. 327.02(1), defines the term “alien” by providing that an alien is “...a person who is not a citizen of the United States.” The Federal Code defines an alien as any person not a citizen or national of the United States. See 8 U.S.C.A. s. 1101(a)(3).
