I. Summary:

This bill replaces the Florida Revised Uniform Limited Partnership Act (1986) with the Florida Revised Uniform Limited Partnership Act (2005), to incorporate reforms from the model act developed by the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws (NCCUSL) and modified by the Florida Bar. The bill also incorporates some of these organizational and administrative reforms into provisions relating to other business entities regulated by the state (corporations, limited liability companies, not-for-profit corporations, and partnerships). This includes harmonization of the merger and conversion provisions, to allow the conversion of business entities from one form to another in a one-step process.

This bill substantially amends sections 607.1302, 608.407, 608.4225, 608.438, 608.4381, 608.4382, 608.4383, 608.439, 608.452, 617.0302, 607.1107, 620.8103, 620.8105, 620.81055, and 620.9104 of the Florida Statutes.

This bill creates sections 607.1112, 607.1113, 607.1114, 607.1115, 608.4351, 608.4352, 608.4353, 608.4354, 608.4356, 608.4357, 608.43575, 608.4358, 608.43585, 608.4359, 608.43595, 608.4401, 608.4402, 608.4403, 608.4404, 620.1101, 620.1102, 620.1103, 620.1104, 620.1105, 620.1106, 620.1107, 620.1108, 620.1109, 620.1110, 620.1111, 620.1112, 620.1113, 620.1114, 620.1115, 620.1116, 620.1117, 620.1118, 620.1201, 620.1202, 620.1203, 620.1204, 620.1205, 620.1206, 620.1207, 620.1208, 620.1209, 620.1210, 620.1301, 620.1302, 620.1303,

II. Present Situation:

Regulation of Business Entities in Florida

Florida businesses are organized into general categories:

- Corporations (ch. 607, F.S.);
- Limited Liability Companies (ch. 608, F.S.);
- Not-For-Profit Corporations (ch. 617, F.S.)
- Limited Partnerships (Part 1, ch. 620, F.S., which is the Florida Revised Uniform Limited Partnership Act, 1986); and
- Partnerships (Part II, ch. 620, F.S, which is the Revised Uniform Partnership Act, 1995).

These chapters regulate the formation, operation, merger, conversion and dissolution of these Florida businesses.

Conversion of Business Entities

Current law allows for the merger of Florida corporations¹, limited partnerships², general partnerships³, and limited liability companies⁴ and the conversion of limited or general partnerships⁵ and limited liability companies.⁶ However, the laws governing these types of transactions are not consistent and often require more than a one-step transaction (such as with respect to the conversion of a corporation into a limited liability company or into a limited partnership).

The Florida Revised Uniform Limited Partnership Act

Florida adopted the Uniform Limited Partnership Act in 1943 and adopted the Florida Revised Uniform Limited Partnership Act (FRULPA) in 1986. The 1986 act is modeled on an amended uniform act released by the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws (NCCUSL) in 1985. Since 1997, NCCUSL has been revising the act, resulting in a “RE-RULPA” released in 2001. It has been adopted in four states and has been endorsed by the American Bar Association. In 2002, the Tax Section of the Florida Bar organized a “RE-FRULPA” drafting committee to review and analyze the 2001 RE-RULPA. During its review process, the committee also considered collateral issues including the harmonization of a new FRULPA with other business organization statutes. The committee presented its recommendation to the governing bodies of the Florida Bar sections and they approved the adoption of the RE-RULPA, known as the FRULPA-2005, as modified by the committee.

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

Section 1 creates multiple sections of the Florida Statutes related to domestic corporations, to incorporate organizational and administrative reforms implemented in the Florida Revised Uniform Limited Partnership Act (2005), created in section 15 of this bill, as developed by NCCUSL and modified by the Florida Bar.

This section creates s. 607.1112, F.S., to provide for the conversion of a domestic corporation into another business entity such as a limited liability company, a not-for-profit corporation, a common law or business trust or association, a real estate investment trust, a general partnership (including a limited liability partnership), a limited partnership (including a limited liability limited partnership), or any other domestic or foreign entity that is organized under a governing law or other applicable law. However, the corporation may not convert into another corporation or an entity that has not been organized for profit thereby preventing a corporation from converting into another corporation.

The converting corporation is required to convert pursuant to a plan of conversion and to meet the requirements of new s. 607.1112, F.S. The plan of conversion must set forth basic information relating to the converting corporation and the business entity into which it is converting, the terms and conditions of the conversion, all statements required by the laws governing the other business entity and appropriate documents. The plan must be adopted by the board of directors and shareholders of the domestic converting corporation. This section limits the conversion of a shareholder of the corporation into a general partner of a succeeding general or limited partnership unless the shareholder consents to such conversion.

This section amends s. 607.1113, F.S., to require the converting corporation to deliver to the Department of State a certificate of conversion setting forth detailed information about the conversion, including the effective date of the conversion, the address of the principal office of the other business entity, a statement that the business entity appoints the department as its agent for service of process if the entity is a foreign entity not authorized to transact business in Florida and a statement that the other business entity has agreed to pay any shareholders having appraisal rights the amount to which they are entitled.

This section amends s. 607.1114, F.S., to provide that the domestic corporation that has been converted into another business entity in compliance with the law is for all purposes the same entity that existed before the conversion and that title to real and other property or any interest therein is vested with the converted entity and that all liabilities and obligations of the converting corporation transfer to the successor entity, including claims existing or actions pending by or against the converting corporation. If the converted entity is a foreign entity, it is deemed to have consented to the jurisdiction of Florida courts and must appoint the Department of State as its agent for service of process. This section also provides that creditors' rights and liens against the converting corporation are not impaired by the conversion. Further, this section provides that the shares, obligations and other securities, or rights to acquire them, of the converting corporation shall be converted into appropriate interests, obligations or securities of the converted entity and that shareholders of the converting corporation shall have those rights specified in the plan of conversion and shall have appraisal rights as provided by law.

This section amends s. 607.1115, F.S., to authorize the conversion into a domestic corporation of a limited liability company, a common law or business trust or association, a real estate investment trust, a general partnership (including a limited liability partnership), a limited partnership, (including a limited liability limited partnership), or any other domestic or foreign entity that is organized under a governing law or other applicable law, but excludes a corporation or an entity that has not been organized for profit. This would preclude a corporation from converting into another corporation.

The converting entity is required to approve the conversion in the manner provided by its governing document.

Section 2 amends s. 607.1302, F.S., to provide that the shareholder appraisal right attaches to shareholders of a domestic corporation when the consummation of a conversion of such corporation occurs. Shareholder approval is required for the conversion and the shareholder is entitled to vote on the conversion.

Sections 3 - 5 amend and create multiple sections of the Florida Statutes relating to limited liability companies, to incorporate organizational and administrative reforms implemented in the Florida Revised Uniform Limited Partnership Act (2005), created in section 15 of this bill, as developed by NCCUSL and modified by the Florida Bar.

Section 3 amends s. 608.407, F.S., to provide that articles of organization containing statements that the company is to be managed by managers or statements that identify managers or managing members are deemed notice of that information. If such information has been added or changed by an amendment or restatement of the articles, it shall not be deemed notice of such fact until 90 days after the effective date of such amendment or restatement. This section also provides that the articles may identify one or more persons authorized to serve as a manager or managing member and may describe limitations on their authority except for limitations on the authority of a manager or managing member to transfer real property with respect to a person who is not a member or manager unless the limitation is recorded in the office for recording transfers of such real property.

Section 4 amends s. 608.4225, F.S., to provide that subject to the conflict of interest provisions of s. 608.4226, the duty of loyalty is limited to accounting to the company and holding as trustee any property, profit or benefit derived by such member or managing member in the conduct or winding-up of the company or derived from a use by the member of company property, refraining from dealing with the company in the conduct of the winding up of the company as or on behalf of an adverse party, and refraining from competing with the company in the conduct of company business before the dissolution of the company.

Section 5 creates s. 608.4351, F.S., to provide definitions.

This section creates s. 608.4352, F.S., to confer on members of a limited liability company an entitlement to appraisal rights and to obtain payment of the fair value of that member's membership interest upon the consummation of a merger of the company if the member has the right to vote on the merger or the consummation of a conversion of such company (the "appraisal event"). Appraisal rights are not available for membership interests that are listed on the New York Stock Exchange or the American Stock Exchange or designated as a national market system security on an interdealer quotation system by the National Association of Securities Dealers or is not listed or designated but is issued by a company that has at least 500 members and all membership interests have a market value of at least $10 million.

This section also provides for appraisal rights notwithstanding the previous limitation if the members are required by an appraisal event to accept for their membership interests anything other than cash or a proprietary interest of an entity. Appraisal rights are also available if the members' interests in the company or the company's assets are being acquired or converted pursuant to an appraisal event by a person who was, or at any time in the one year period immediately preceding approval of the appraisal event was the beneficial owner of 20 percent or more of those interests in the company entitled to vote on the appraisal event. Appraisal rights are also available if any of the members' interests in the company or the company's assets are being acquired or converted pursuant to an appraisal event by a person who is, or at any time in the one year period immediately preceding approval of the appraisal event was, a senior executive of the company or of an affiliate of the company and will receive a financial benefit not generally available to members with certain exceptions.

This section provides for the assertion of appraisal rights and for the challenge of a completed appraisal event if the event was not effectuated according to law or was procured as a result of fraud or misrepresentation.

This section creates s. 608.4353, F.S., providing that a record member may assert appraisal rights to fewer than all of the membership interest registered in the record member's name that are owned by a beneficial member if the record member objects to all of the membership interest owned by the beneficial member. Notification in writing must be given to the limited liability company on behalf of beneficial members who are asserting appraisal rights.

This section creates s. 608.4354, F.S., to require the company to notify members whether they are entitled to appraisal rights if a proposed appraisal event is to be submitted to a vote at a members' meeting. If the company concludes that such rights are or may be available to members, it must provide a copy of the applicable law along with the meeting notice to those members who are entitled to appraisal.

This section also creates s. 608.4355, F.S., to require and provide a process for a member to provide notice of his or her intent to demand payment if an appraisal event occurs.

This section creates s. 608.4356, F.S., to provide that the company must notify a member who has provided notice of intent to demand payment of the date the appraisal event became effective and provide the member a form to fill out appropriate information, which states whether he or she accepts the company's offer of the fair value of the member's interest. The notice must be sent to the member no later than 10 days after the date the appraisal event became effective and must give the member notice of when he or she must return the form.

This section creates s. 608.4357, F.S., to provide that once a member returns the form, he or she loses all rights of membership unless he or she withdraws from the appraisal process by notifying the company in writing by a date set forth in the appraisal notice. A member that fails to execute and return the form is not entitled to payment.

This section creates s. 608.43575, F.S, to provide that if a member accepts the company's offer to pay the fair value of their interest, the company shall make payment to the member within 90 days of the receipt of the form or certificates in the case of certificated interests. Upon payment, the member shall cease to have any interest in the membership interest.

This section creates s. 608.4358, F.S., to provide that if a member accepts the company's offer to pay the fair value of their interest, the company shall make payment to the member within 90 days of the receipt of the form or certificates in the case of certificated interests. Upon payment, the member shall cease to have any interest in the membership interest. A member who is dissatisfied with the company's offer must notify the company of the member's estimate of the fair value of the interest and demand payment of that amount plus interest. If the member fails to provide such notice in the timeframe required for their response, the member waives the right to demand payment and is entitled only to payment offered by the company.

This section creates s. 608.43585, F.S, to require the company to commence a proceeding within 60 days of the date it receives a payment demand from a member when the demand remains unsettled. The company must ask a court to determine the fair value of the membership interest and accrued interest. If the company fails to initiate the proceeding, any member who has made a demand may commence the proceeding. This section provides for venue and requires the joinder of all members whose demands remain unsettled as parties to the proceeding. This section requires the company to pay each member the fair value of his or her interest within ten days after final determination of the proceedings. Upon payment, the member shall cease to have any interest in the membership interests.

This section creates s. 608.4359, F.S., to provide that the court may assess costs against the company, including the costs of any appraisers appointed by the court, and may assess costs against members if the court finds that such members acted arbitrarily, vexatiously or not in good faith. The court may also grant attorneys' fees against the company if it finds that the company did not comply with law. Attorneys' fess may also be granted against the company or a member, if the court finds that the party against whom the fees shall be assessed acted arbitrarily, vexatiously or not in good faith. If the company fails to make a required payment, a member may sue outright and can recover attorneys' fees and costs of suit.

This section creates s. 608.43595, F.S., to limit payments by the company to a member seeking appraisal if the payment would render the company insolvent or if the payment would violate the law. In such a case, the member may withdraw his or her notice of intent to demand payment or retain status as a claimant and be subordinated to the rights of creditors if the company is liquidated. A process for written notice by the member is provided.

Sections 6 - 9 amends sections 608.438, 608.4381, 608.4382, and 608.4383, F.S., respectively, to conform definitions, actions on the plan of merger, certificates of merger, the effects of merger and appraisal rights relating to the merger of a limited liability company to the new conversion provisions created in ss.608.4351-608.43595, F.S.

Section 10 amends s. 608.439, F.S., to conform current s. 608.439, F.S., to the conversion provisions of proposed s. 607.1112, F.S. The conforming changes relate to definitions, the law authorizing another entity to convert into a domestic limited liability company, and the plan of conversion.

Section 11 creates ss. 608.4401, 608.4402, 608.4403, and 608.4404, F.S. relating to the conversion of a domestic limited liability company into another business entity. This section mirrors the conversion provisions of a domestic corporation into another business entity provided for in Section 1 of the bill, accounting for the inherent structural and functional differences between the corporations and limited liability companies.

Section 12 amends s. 608.452, F.S., to authorize the Department of State to impose a fee of $25 for the filing of a certificate of conversion of a limited liability company.

Section 13 amends s. 617.0302, F.S., to authorize a not-for-profit corporation to merge with other business entities, for-profit or not-for-profit, domestic and foreign, if the surviving corporation is not-for-profit or the other business entity has been organized as a not-for-profit entity under the governing statute authorizing the merger.

Section 14 amends s. 617.1107, F.S., to provide that the merger of a not-for-profit corporation is subject to existing ss. 607.1108, 607.1109 and 607.11101, F.S., relating to mergers of domestic corporations and other entities; the articles of merger and the effect of merger.

Section 15 creates the Florida Revised Uniform Limited Partnership Act - 2005 (FRULPA - 2005) in ss. 620.1101 – 620.2205, F.S. It includes 120 new sections of law establishing the FRULPA – 2005. For ease of reading, the major substantive provisions and differences between the new act and the existing act are summarized below (references to ch. 620, F.S., are to newly created sections within section 15 of the bill).

Relationship between FRULPA and FRUPA

- Current law (Part 1 of ch. 620, F.S.) has FRULPA linked to and “piggy-backed” on the Florida Revised Uniform Partnership Act (FRUPA). (s. 620.186, F.S.) Because of the

- linked nature of the two laws, many legal requirements that are imposed on limited partnerships are contained in the general partnership law.
- The bill will de-link FRULPA and create a self-contained statute that still has many of the same provisions of FRUPA.

Permitted Business Purposes

- Current law allows a limited partnership to carry on any business that a general partnership may carry on. This may be construed to be limited only to “for-profit” activities.
- The bill allows a limited partnership to carry on any lawful purpose, including any not-for-profit activities. (s. 620.1104, F.S.)

Constructive Notice By Publicly Filed Document

- Current law provides that a certificate of limited partnership is the only notice that the limited partnership exists and that designated general partners are in fact general partners.
- The bill contains current law but provides that constructive notice is deemed to occur 90 days after appropriate filing of general partner dissociation and of limited partnership dissolution, termination, merger and conversion, and certain restrictions on a general partner. (s. 620.1103, F.S.)

Duration or Term of Limited Partnership

- Current law provides for duration to be specified in the partnership agreement.
- The bill makes duration perpetual unless the partnership agreement provides otherwise. (s. 620.1104, F.S.)

Affidavit Describing Amount of Capital Contributions

- Current law requires an affidavit to be attached to the certificate of limited partnership and updated when changes occur.
- The bill will remove the affidavit requirement (a similar requirement for limited liability companies was removed in 1999).

Use of Limited Partner’s Name in Partnership

- Current law prohibits the use of a limited partner’s name except in special circumstances.
- The bill will allow the use of a limited partner’s name and that use will not affect the liability of the limited partner. (s. 620.1108, F.S.)

Limited Partner Liability to Third Parties for Entity Debts.

- Under current law, liability may exist if the limited partner participates in the control of the business and the third party reasonably believes that the limited partner is a general partner and provides a list of “safe harbor” activities that do not constitute participating in the control of the business.
- The bill will shield a limited partner from liability, even if the limited partner participates in the management and control of the partnership. (s. 620.1303, F.S.)

Limited Partners Duties

- Current law does not specify any duties of a limited partner.

- Under the bill, a limited partner will have no fiduciary duty solely by reason of being a limited partner, but limited partners must discharge their duties and exercise their rights under the partnership agreement and act consistently with obligations of good faith and fair dealing. These obligations are nonwaivable by partnership agreement. If a limited partner takes part in management, his or her fiduciary duties will be limited to the same duties of care and loyalty that would apply to a general partner under the same circumstances. (s. 620.1305, F.S.)

Partner Access to Required Partnership Information

- Current law gives all partners right of access, with no requirement of showing good cause or proper purpose.
- The bill expands the list of required information and provides that a partner does not have to show good cause. However, the partnership agreement may set reasonable restrictions on access and general partners may impose reasonable restrictions on the use of such information. (ss. 620.1304 and 620.1407, F.S.)

Partner Access to Other Information and Records

- Under current law, limited partners have the right to obtain other relevant information upon reasonable demand and general partner rights to the same information are linked to FRUPA.
- Under the bill, limited partners will have the same rights as provided in current law, with the addition of procedures and standards for making a demand for information set out in greater detail and with a requirement added that the limited partnership supply without request known material information whenever limited partner votes or other consents are required. General partners access rights are made explicit following FRUPA, including the obligation of the limited partnership and general partners to volunteer certain information. The bill also provides access rights to former partners for certain purposes relating to the time when they were partners. (ss. 620.1304 and 620.1407, F.S.)

General Partner Liability for Entity Debts

- Unless the partnership elects limited liability limited partnership (LLLP) status, all general partners are jointly and severally liable for all partnership obligations.
- The bill provides a partnership may select limited liability limited partnership status in its certificate of limited partnership. LLLP status provides a full liability shield to all general partners. If the limited partnership is not an LLLP, general partners will continue to be jointly and severally liable just as under current law. (s. 620.1404, F.S.)

General Partner Duties

- Current law links general partner duties to duties of partners in general partnership.
- The bill provides for duties that are essentially the same as under FRUPA but clarifies that non-compete duties continue while winding-up the limited partnership's activities. (s. 620.1408, F.S.)

Capital Contribution Obligations/Allocations of Profits, Losses and Distributions

- Current law provides that capital contributions may be in the form of cash, property, services or obligations to provide the same in the future; that the obligation of each partner must be in a signed writing, may not be compromised without all partner consent and that the partnership agreement may impose severe penalties for breach of the obligation. Current law contains separate provisions for sharing of profits and losses and for sharing of distributions, and in each case they are allocated according to the value of contributions made and not returned.

- The bill is substantially the same except that it provides that the default rule for allocation of profits, losses and distributions will be in proportion to the total value of contributions actually made by partners (regardless of whether all or part has been returned). (ss. 620.1502 and 620.1503, F.S.)

Partner Liability for Distributions

- Current law provides for a limitations period of six years in cases where a partner received a wrongful distribution and defines wrongful distributions to be those made where partnership liabilities exceed the fair value of assets of the partnership.
- The bill will provide a “balance sheet” test for determining whether a distribution is wrongful (looking at liabilities versus assets) as well as an “equity” test, which looks at whether the partnership would be unable to pay debts if the distribution was made. The bill also reduces the limitations period from six to two years. (ss. 620.1508 and 620.1509, F.S.)

Limited Partner Voluntary Dissociation (Right of Withdrawal)

- Under current law, a limited partner may withdraw only if permitted by partnership agreement or certificate, with the limited exception for certain grandfathered partnerships created before 1996.
- The bill will prohibit the right of withdrawal before the termination of the limited partnership, unless the partnership agreement permits or requires withdrawal. (s. 620.1601, F.S.)

Limited Partner Involuntary Dissociation

- Current law does not address this issue.
- The bill sets forth a list of causes of involuntary dissociation, based on those that apply to a general partner under FRUPA. A limited partner may be dissociated by expulsion as provided for in the agreement; by expulsion by judicial determination on an application by the partnership for wrongful conduct, breach of the agreement or by conduct making it unreasonable to carry on the partnership; by corporate dissolution; or death, among other reasons. (s. 620.1601, F.S.)

Limited Partner Dissociation – Payout

- Current law gives a limited partner the right to receive fair value at the time of dissociation based on the right to receive partnership distributions.
- The bill eliminates the right to receive payout on dissociation. The partner instead becomes a transferee of its own “transferable interest” (the economic rights or right to receive a future distribution). (s. 620.1602, F.S.)

General Partner Voluntary Dissociation

- Under current law, a general partner has the right and power to withdraw from the partnership at any time subject to damages provided by the partnership agreement for withdrawal in breach of the agreement and for set-off of damages against any right to distribution.

- The bill is essentially the same as current law, but specifies that wrongful dissociations include those in breach of an express provision of the partnership agreement and those that occur before termination of the agreement under certain circumstances. (ss. 620.1603 and 620.1604, F.S.)

General Partner Involuntary Dissociation

- Current law provides for involuntary dissociation of a general partner under a variety of causes, including by removal pursuant to the partnership agreement, when the partner makes an assignment for the benefit of creditors, files a petition in bankruptcy, is adjudged bankrupt or insolvent, files a petition for reorganization or similar relief, is dissolved, if it is another partnership or if the partner dies, if the partner is a natural person.
- The bill maintains and clarifies existing law, slightly expanding the list of events causing dissociation but staying within the framework set by FRUPA. (s. 620.1603, F.S.)

General Partner Dissociation – Payout

- Current law provides for a right to receive fair value at the time of dissociation based on the general partner's right to share in distributions.
- The bill will eliminate the right to payout at time of dissociation, instead making the partner the transferee of its own "transferable interest" (right to receive future distributions). (s. 620.1605, F.S.)

Transfer of Partner Interest

- Current law provides that economic rights are fully transferable, but management rights and partner status are not transferable. A partner who transfers all of his/her interest loses partnership status.
- The bill follows current law but allows for limitations on the transfer of a transferable interest and reverses current law by allowing a partner who transfers a transferable interest to remain a partner subject to all partner duties and obligations. The bill also allows the partnership to place a legend on certificates representing transferable interests that will identify any restrictions on the interests. (s. 620.1702, F.S.)

Rights of Creditor of Partner

- Current law limits the rights of a creditor of a partner to charging the partnership interest of the partner and gives the creditor rights of an assignee.
- The bill will provide that the only remedy for a judgment creditor to satisfy a judgment out of the judgment debtor's interest in the partnership is a judgment lien. (s. 620.1703, F.S.)

Dissolution by Partner Consent

- Current law requires dissolution by unanimous written consent of all general and limited partners.
- The bill does not change current law. (s. 620.1801, F.S.)

Dissolution Following Dissociation of a General Partner

- Current law makes dissolution automatic upon dissociation of a general partner unless all partners agree to continue the business and, if there is no remaining general partner, they all agree to appoint a replacement general partner.
- The bill provides that if at least one general partner remains, no dissolution occurs unless within 90 days after the dissociation all partners consent to dissolve the limited partnership. If no general partner remains, dissolution occurs upon the passage of 90 days after the dissociation unless the partners consent to continue the business and admit at least one new general partner and that new partner is admitted. (s. 620.1801, F.S.)

Filings Related to Dissolution and Winding-Up

- Current law requires a certificate of cancellation of the limited partnership to be filed when the limited partnership dissolves and winding-up activities are completed.
- The bill requires a limited partnership to file a certificate of dissolution when it voluntarily dissolves and allows the partnership to file a statement of termination indicating that winding-up has been completed and that all partnership activities have terminated. (ss. 620.1801 and 620.1803, F.S.)

Procedures for Barring Claims against a Dissolved Limited Partnership

- Current law does not address this issue.
- The bill adopts similar provisions of ch. 607, F.S., = the corporation law and provides for giving notice, responding to, paying and making provisions for claims and allows partnerships using these provisions to bar known claims after three years and unknown claims after four years. (ss. 620.1806 and 620.1807, F.S.)

Conversions and Mergers

- Current law permits mergers of a limited partnership with other business organizations and the conversion of a limited partnership into a general partnership and the conversion of a general partnership into a limited partnership. Appraisal rights are available to dissenting partners in a merger transaction.
- The bill provides comprehensive and liberal provisions for conversion of another business organization to a limited partnership, the conversion of a limited partnership into another organization and the merger of a limited partnership with another organization. The term organization is broadly defined to include: a corporation; a common law or business trust or association; a real estate investment trust; a general partnership, including a limited liability limited partnership; a limited partnership, including a limited liability limited partnership; a limited liability company; or any other domestic or foreign entity that is organized under a governing law or other applicable law except for a not-for-profit organization unless it is the surviving entity. The conversion provisions mirror those provided for corporations and limited liability companies in sections 1, 6-9, 10 and 11 of the bill.

Sections 16 – 21 relate to general partnerships, to incorporate organizational and administrative reforms implemented in the Florida Revised Uniform Limited Partnership Act (2005), created in section 15 of this bill, as developed by NCCUSL and modified by the Florida Bar.

Section 16 amends s. 620.8103, F.S., with respect to nonwaivable provisions of a partnership agreement to remove the prohibition against changing of notice requirements for conversion or merger of a partnership.

Section 17 amends s. 620.8105, F.S., to provide for filing of a certificate of merger, certificate of conversion or registration statement and allows the documents to specify a delayed effective date.

Section 18 amends s. 620.81055, F.S., to provide that the Department of State shall collect a certificate of conversion filing fee of $25 when an entity is required by law to submit one with a filing.

Section 19 amends s. 620.8404, F.S., to remove a “without limitation” clause in describing a partner’s duty of loyalty to the partnership and partners, making the listed duties the only duties.

Section 20 creates multiple sections of the Florida Statutes.

This section creates s. 620.8901, F.S., to provide definitions.

This section creates s. 620.8912, F.S., to authorize the conversion of another organization into a partnership and a partnership into another organization if the other organization’s governing law authorizes such conversion, the conversion is permitted by the law of the jurisdiction that enacted the governing law, and the other organization complies with its governing law in effecting the conversion. The entities must prepare a plan of conversion that includes the name and form of the organization before the conversion, the name and form after conversion, the terms and conditions of the conversion and the organizational documents of the converted organization.

This section creates s. 620.8913, F.S., to provide that the plan of conversion must be consented to by all of the partners of the converting partnership and must be in or evidenced by a record.

This section creates s. 620.8914, F.S., to provide that once the plan of conversion is approved, the converting partnership must file a registration statement with the Department of State that includes a statement that the partnership has been converted into another organization. Included in that statement must be the name and form of the organization and the jurisdiction of its governing law, the date the conversion is effective, a statement that the conversion was approved, and a statement that the conversion was approved as required by the governing law of the converted organization. An organization converting into a partnership regulated under FRUPA must also file certificates of registration and conversion.

This section creates s. 620.8915, F.S., to provide that once the organization has converted, it is considered the same entity that existed before conversion. When the conversion takes effect, title to all real estate and other property or any interest therein owned by the converting organization at the time of the conversion remains vested in the converted organization. All debts, liabilities and obligations of the converted organization continue and all actions or proceedings pending by or against the converting entity continue as though the conversion never occurred. All the rights, privileges, powers, immunities and purposes of the converting organization remain vested in the converting organization. If the converted organization is a foreign organization, it consents to the jurisdiction of Florida courts. If it is also not authorized to transact business in Florida, it shall appoint the department as its agent for service of process.

This section creates s. 620.8916, F.S., to permit the merger of a partnership with one or more other organizations pursuant to a plan of merger if the governing law of each of the other organizations authorizes the merger, the merger is permitted by the law of each jurisdiction that enacted those governing laws, and each of the other organizations complies with its governing law. The plan of merger must include the name and form of each organization, the name and form of the surviving organization and the terms and conditions of the merger.

This section creates s. 620.8917, F.S., to provide that the plan of merger must be consented to by all of the partners and must be evidenced in a record.

This section creates s. 620.8918, F.S., to provide that after the plan is approved, a certificate of merger must be signed by all partners of each preexisting partnership and a representative of each other preexisting organization. The plan must include the name and form of each organization and the jurisdiction of its governing law, the name and form of the surviving organization and the jurisdiction of its governing law, and if the surviving organization is created by the merger, a statement to that effect. Also necessary is the date the merger is effective, any amendments to the organizational document that created the organization, a statement that the merger was approved by each organization according to its governing law, and a street and mailing address if the surviving organization is a foreign organization not authorized to transact business in Florida. The bill provides for the effective date of the merger depending on the nature of the organization.

This section creates s. 620.8919, F.S., to provide that once the merger is effective, the surviving organization continues and the organizations merged into the surviving organization cease to exist as separate entities. Title to all real estate, and other property or any interest therein owned by the merging organizations vests in the surviving organization. All debts, liabilities and obligations of the merging organizations, and all actions or proceedings pending by or against the merging organizations continue as though the merger never occurred. All the rights, privileges, powers, immunities and purposes of the merging organizations remain vested in the surviving organization. If the surviving organization is a foreign organization, it consents to the jurisdiction of Florida courts. If it is not authorized to transact business in Florida, it shall appoint the Department of State as its agent for service of process.

This section creates s. 620.8920, F.S., to limit the approval of a conversion or merger if a partner of a converting or partnership in merger will have personal liability with respect to the converted or surviving organization. In such cases, the partner must consent to the conversion or merger unless the partnership agreement provides for approval with consent of fewer than all partners and the partner has consented to that provision in the partnership agreement. If an amendment to a statement of qualification for a limited liability partnership revokes its status as a limited liability partnership, each general partner must consent or the amendment is ineffective. Unless, the partnership agreement provided for amendment with the consent of fewer than all partners and each partner that does not consent to the amendment has consented to the provision in the partnership agreement.

This section creates s. 620.8921, F.S., to provide that a person who was a partner in or dissociated as a partner from a converting or merging partnership is not released from their partner liability by virtue of a conversion or merger. The bill sets forth the applicable contribution rights for a partner from other persons arising out of pre-conversion and pre-merger acts. This section also makes partners in preexisting entities prior to conversion or merger personally liable to third parties for transactions entered into by the converted or surviving entity and the third party when the third party had no notice of a conversion or merger and reasonably believed that the converted or surviving business was a partnership that is not a limited liability limited partnership and that the partner is a partner in the converted or surviving partnership. This section provides similar provisions for liability of a dissociated partner, except for a requirement that less than two years have elapsed since the dissociation at the time the third party enters into the transaction

This section creates s. 620.8922, F.S., to provide that an act by a person, who immediately before a conversion or merger became effective, was a partner in a converting or merging partnership binds the converted or surviving organization after the conversion or merger if before the conversion or merger the act would have bound the limited partnership, and at the time of the transaction the third party does not have notice of the conversion or merger and reasonably believes that that converted or surviving business is the converting or merging partnership and that the person is a partner of the partnership. This section provides similar provisions for dissociated partners, except for a requirement that less than two years have elapsed since the dissociation at the time the third party enters the transaction.

This section creates s. 620.8923, F.S., to provide that s.620.8911, F.S., through s. 620.8922, F.S., do not preclude conversions and mergers under other law, nor do those sections authorize any act prohibited by any other applicable law or change the requirements of any law or rule regulating a specific industry.

Section 21 amends s. 620.9104, F.S., to expand the description of “activities not constituting transacting business” for a foreign limited liability partnership to include, without limitation:

- Maintaining bank accounts in financial institutions;
- Owning and controlling a subsidiary corporation incorporated in or transacting business within Florida or voting the stock of any corporation it has lawfully acquired;
- Owning a limited partnership interest in a limited partnership that is doing business in Florida unless such limited partner manages or controls the partnership or exercise the powers and duties of a general partner; or
- Owning, without more, real or personal property.

Section 22 providing for repeal, effective on January 1, 2006, of the following sections of law:

- Section 608.4384, F.S., relating to rights of dissenting members of a limited liability company;

- Part I of ch. 620, F.S., the “Florida Revised Uniform Partnership Act (1986),” which is replaced by Florida Revised Uniform Partnership Act (2005) in section 15 of the bill;
- Sections 620.8901 – 620.8908, F.S., relating to the conversion of a partnership to a limited partnership and of a limited partnership to a partnership, which is replaced by multiple sections created in section 20 of the bill.

Section 23 provides an effective date of January 1, 2006, except as otherwise provided in the bill.

B. Public Records/Open Meetings Issues:

C. Trust Funds Restrictions:

None.

V. Economic Impact and Fiscal Note:

A. Tax/Fee Issues:

Section 12 authorizes the Department of State to impose a fee of $25 for the filing of a certificate of conversion of a limited liability company.

Section 15 revises the filing fee provisions under FRULPA, eliminating a current fee structure based in part on the anticipated amount of capital contributions of the limited partners that is allocated for the purpose of transacting business, calculated at a rate of $7 per $1,000 of such contributions with a floor of at least $52.50 and a cap of $1,750, and replacing it with a flat fee for each type of filing required or permitted by law. According to the Department of State, the revision to the fee law will create an increase in fees for approximately 25 percent of partnership entities, a decrease for approximately 25 percent of partnership entities and a neutral impact on approximately 50 percent of partnership entities. The department reports that the overall effect of the fee changes will be neutral and that the fee structure will be less complicated.

Section 18 provides that the department must collect a certificate of conversion filing fee of $25 when an entity is required by law to submit one along with a filing. However, the department expects the fees collected will be minimal.

B. Private Sector Impact:

See Tax/Fee Issues.

C. Government Sector Impact:

None.

VI. Technical Deficiencies:

The bill appears to contain three drafting errors:

- On page 10, lines 257 and 264, there are mutually exclusive references to not-for-profit corporations relating to the conversion of a domestic corporation into another entity. The first reference defines the other business entity to include a not-for-profit corporation but the second reference excludes such corporations;
- The reference on page 156, line 4303 to “620.2202-620.2225” should be to 620.2102-620.2112; and
- The reference on page 214, line 5898 to “6210.8906” should be to 620.8906.
