I. Summary:

This committee substitute (CS) authorizes local governments to enter into contracts with private attorneys or collection agents for collection of moneys owed to local governments that have not been paid for 90 days after the due date. Collection fees may be added to the debt owed but may not exceed 40 percent of the amount owed.

This CS creates s. 215.125 of the Florida Statutes.

II. Present Situation:

Local Government Powers

The Florida Constitution grants local governments broad home rule authority. Specifically, non-charter county governments may exercise those powers of self-government that are provided by general or special law.¹ Those counties operating under a county charter have all powers of self-government not inconsistent with general law, or special law approved by the vote of the electors.² Likewise, municipalities have those governmental, corporate, and proprietary powers that enable them to conduct municipal government, perform its functions and provide services, and exercise any power for municipal purposes, except as otherwise provided by law.³

Section 125.01, F.S., enumerates the powers and duties of all county governments, unless preempted on a particular subject by general or special law. Those powers include the provision of fire protection, ambulance services, parks and recreation, libraries, museums and other cultural facilities, waste and sewage collection and disposal, and water and alternative water supplies. Section 166.021, F.S., gives municipalities home rule powers with the following exceptions: annexation, merger, and exercise of extraterritorial power, and subjects prohibited by the federal, state, or county constitution or law.

Given these constitutional and statutory powers, local governments may use a variety of revenue sources to fund services and improvements without express statutory authorization.⁴ Special assessments,⁵ impact fees, franchise fees, and user fees or service charges are examples of these home rule revenue sources.⁶ In addition, local governments may issue fines for violation of local ordinances.⁷

Whether local governments can use their home rule powers to employ the services of private attorneys or collection agents for recovering debts owed to the local government is uncertain. One attorney general opinion concluded that a “municipality may enter into an agreement with a collection agency to compromise code enforcement liens and pursue collection through litigation” by using its home rule authority.⁸ However, there are a numerous statutes that deal with the collection of taxes,⁹ assessments,¹⁰ fines, fees, and costs.¹¹ When a statute specifies the procedures and costs a local government can collect, it is less likely that the local government will be found to have the authority to deviate from or expand upon the statutory framework.¹² One attorney general opinion determined that the process given Chapter 197, F.S., provides the sole method for enforcing liens for non-ad valorem assessments within a specified jurisdiction based on the premise that “[i]t is a rule that a legislative direction as to how a thing is done is, in effect, a prohibition against it being done in any other way.”¹³

⁴ The exercise of home rule powers by local governments is constrained by whether an inconsistent provision or outright prohibition exists in the constitution, general law, or special law regarding the power at issue. Counties and municipalities cannot levy a tax without express statutory authorization because the constitution specifically prevents them from doing so. See Art. VII, § 1, Fla. Const. However, local governments may levy special assessments and a variety of fees absent any general law prohibition provided such home rule source meets the relevant legal sufficiency tests.

Attorney's Fees

The general rule in Florida is that attorney's fees are awarded only when permitted by statute or contract.¹⁴ Even when a statute awards a local government the right to "recover all costs incurred" in prosecuting a case to recover fines owed for the violation of a local ordinance, the term "costs" has been interpreted to exclude attorney's fees.¹⁵

Tax Collectors

The county tax collector is the county officer charged with the collection of ad valorem taxes levied by the county, the school board, any special taxing districts within the county, and all municipalities within the county.¹⁶ Tax collectors may appoint deputies to act on their behalf to carry out the duties prescribed by law.¹⁷

Pursuant to ch. 197, F.S., tax collectors have the authority to collect all taxes shown on the tax rolls by the date of delinquency. Taxes are due and payable on November 1 of each year or as soon as the certified tax rolls are received by the tax collector.¹⁸ Taxes become delinquent on April 1 of the following year in which they are assessed, or 60 days from the mailing of the original notice, whichever is later.¹⁹ If the delinquency date for ad valorem taxes is later than April 1 of the year following the assessment on which taxes are due, all dates or time periods regarding the collection of, or administrative procedures regarding the collection of, delinquent taxes shall be extended a like number of days.²⁰ If taxes become delinquent, the tax collector may collect delinquent taxes, interests, and costs, by sale of tax certificates on real property and by seizure and sale of personal property. Costs include the publication of notices and reasonable attorney fees and court costs in proceedings to recover delinquent taxes.²¹

Section 197.413, F.S., provides that before May 1 of each year following the assessment, the tax collector prepares a roll of all unpaid personal property taxes. Prior to April 30th of the next year, the tax collector is required to prepare warrants against the delinquent taxpayers. The warrants allow for the levy upon, and seizure of, tangible personal property. Within 30 days after preparing the warrants, the tax collector files a petition in the circuit court for the county they serve in. The petition describes the levies and nonpayment of taxes, the issuance of warrants, proof of publication of notices, and the names and addresses of all taxpayers who failed to pay taxes. There is one petition naming multiple delinquent taxpayers. The petition pays for an order ratifying and confirming the warrants, and directing the tax collector to levy upon and seize the personal property of all delinquent tax payers to satisfy payment of unpaid taxes.²²

Upon filing a petition with the court, the tax collector must request the earliest time for a hearing, and the clerk of court shall notify each delinquent taxpayer listed in the petition that a petition is filed and, if ratified, warrants will be issued and their property will be seized and sold to pay unpaid taxes, plus costs, interest, attorney's fees, and other charges.²³ The tax collector is entitled to a fee of $2 from each delinquent taxpayer at the time delinquent taxes are collected, and an additional $8 for each warrant issued.²⁴

The tax collector is authorized to employ counsel to conduct such suits.²⁵ They may agree upon counsel's compensation, which may come out of the general office expense fund and be included in their budget.²⁶ These fees are allowed to be collected from delinquent taxpayers by adding them to the unpaid taxes.

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

Section 1 of the CS creates s. 215.125, F.S., entitled "Collection of noncourt-related financial obligations."

The CS provides that a local government may pursue the collection of any fees, service charges, fines, or costs to which it is entitled and which remain unpaid for 90 days or more. If the local government determines that it would be cost-effective to enter into such a contract it may refer the account to:

- a private attorney who is a member in good standing with The Florida Bar or
- a collection agent who is registered and in good standing pursuant to chapter 559.

In pursuing the collection of unpaid financial obligations through a private attorney or collection agent, the local government may prescribe procurement practices to be followed by the collection agent or private attorney. The collection fee, including fees paid to an attorney or collection agent or the governing body of a municipality may be added to the balance owed, but may not exceed 40 percent of the amount owed at the time that the account is referred to the attorney or agent for collection.

Section 2 of the CS sets an effective date of July 1, 2010.
